Alderman Coffey, he testified, was present at all the hearings.

Alderman Arthur J. Heaney was the next witness. Among other things he testified that he opposed the resolution granting the franchises because it was so long that he wanted time to look it over. He also thought the Company should state exactly what it was willing to pay. He went to the Mayor and the Mayor promised him that the franchises would not be granted unless a proper price was paid.

He denied that there was the Aldermen, and of Judge Cullen's order prohibiting the signing of the first resolution. He denied that there was any law compelling the Aldermen to give hearings, but they ought to have done so, like any other public servants.

The Aldermen were not obliged to take money bids. The Aldermen could not be justified in allowing a company to bid. The Aldermen would be justified in granting franchises upon any conditions, provided they thought they were acting honestly for the best interests of the city.

P. H. Flynn, President of the Flynn syndicate, told all about the Nassan lines and how the company was organized. He was asked if the stockholders of the Nassau Company were the same as the stockholders of the Kings County Company. There were some differences he replied, but he did not know how much. He did not believe that the applications of the Union street company of the franchise were as well received as his, nor respected as much because they did not have as much because they did not have as much because they did not have as much capital stock. He was approached by a representative of the Union Street Company when the franchise fight was going on. He was told that the fight would be dropped if the Union Street people were let into the deal.

"Who told you that?"

"Well, he was a very nice, respectable man, and I would not like to tell unless you forced me."

"I don't like to tell you."

"Don't you know that he approached you with an improper motive?"

Later on Mr. Grout said: "I have known Mr. Boody for a great many years, and if any man came and told me that he had received money for his signature I would disbelieve it."

"My point is simply this that Judge Cullen holds that It was in bad faith and fraudulent in ignoring an offer of $10,000, and I think I have shown that they have ignored our offer, the last time as effectually as the first. Ignored by the Aldermen and by the Mayor."

He was asked if he knew his petition was rejected because of the illegal status of his company. He said he had not. BAYONNE, N. J., July 20.-The baby which was thrown from the Monmouth race track

GREEN GOODS CASE IN COURT. Walters to Be Examined at Jefferson

Maywood, about half a mile from the town.

It is stated that the young couple love each other, and would have been married had not outside influence been brought to bear. About live months ago it was reported they had been married, but this proved to be untrue.

What gave credence to the report was that Miss Scoskie went to see Mrs. Simpson, and asked her if she had any objection to her son being married. The mother roblied that the son was too young to think of such a thing.

Nothing more was said on either side until yesterday, when Gussie, realizing that she was in trouble, went to her lover and asked him to marry her. The interview was unsatisfactory to the young woman, and she went before Justice of the Peace Cummings and swore out a warrant for his arrest.

Young Simpson was released under the Grand Jury.

Market This Afternoon.

The Broken Chicago Banker's Explanation of His Failure.

MASCOUTAH, JIL, July 20 .- J. N. Hagins, he broken Chicago banker, who had brand institutions here and at other places in Ilinois, says his failure was not due to the collapse of the Columbian National Bank nor the tight money market, as was supposed but to the embezziement of his manager.

The manager, it is said, came here and took $8,000 is cash from the bank, and from here went to Gillespie. There he is said to have taken $8,000 in cash and $50,000 in bonds and disappeared. and disappeared.

Hagins claims he will be able to settle up dollar for dollar, but his creditors doubt it.
